Quarterly Conference Is Well Attended

The regular Quarterly Conference of the Taylor Stake of Zion was held Saturday and Sunday in the Stake House, with President H S. Allen in charge of all meetings and Elder Chas A. Callis of the Council of the Twelve Presiding.

All the meetings were featured by exceptionally good attendances and every ward and branch in the Stake was well represented. The feature of the Conference was the sermons of Elder Callis who spoke at all four meetings, and left much in the way of doctrine and encouragement for the people to think over. Sunday School Convention meetings were also held during the time, and a showing of films of a practical Demonstration of Sunday School work was given in the Capitol Theatre Sunday at 1 p.m.

At the Saturday evening meeting Elder Callis was the principal speaker, and related many faith promoting experiences he had during his 28 years of service in the mission field, during most of which he presided over the Southern States Mission.

SUNDAY MORNING

The Sunday mooning session was called to order at 10 a.m., and the Sunday School Choirs of both Raymond wards were in attendance and rendered several numbers during the session and assisted in the Chorus of a duett by Billy Mehew and Franklin Smith. Pres O. H. Snow and Elder Callis were the speakers at this session, Pres. Snow relating the accomplishments of athletes who observed the Word of Wisdom against those who did not, and urged the boys and girls to strictly observo this law

Elder Callis directed his remarks to the children, and by means of stories emphasized the need of obedience to God's laws if we wish His spirit to be with us, and if we wished to reap the blessings promised to the faithful.

A roll call of Sunday School officers and teachers at this meeting showed about 95% of all those enrolled present at the meeting, which was a very commendable showing.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Sunday afternoon session was called to order at 2:30, and the Stake Choir was present with instrumentaists from Lethbridge, Stirling and Raymond assisting in the accompaniments.

The Choir sang "The Lord Hath Brought Again Zion," and Bishop M. E. Rice of Magrath First Ward offered the opening prayer, after which the Choir sang' The Omnipotent."

Pres. O. H. Snow read the names of the General Church and Stake Authorities and they were all sustained by the vote of the people.

A vocal solo was rendered by Jos. R. McLean, and Elder Orson Bridge who was on a short term mission to the North-Central States, and S. Boothe Card, who filled a three years mission in France were called on to report briefly.

A vocal solo was next rendered by Mrs. D. A. Watson.

Elder Callis then spoke and delivered a wonderful sermon on "Life, Death, and the Resurrection." Redemption, he said was brought about by Jesus Christ, Regeneration through the Holy Ghost, and Resurrection, the re-uniting of the spirit and body, to receive a fulness of joy, by the Father and His son through the sacrifice on Calvary. These three R's in religion, compare to the three R's in schooling, and form the foundation of all thought and teaching in life. Illustrating the resurrection he referred to the planting of wheat in the soil, and the growh of the new grain dependent on the moisture and the sunshine. And, that as the old seed dies in order to bring forth new, so it is with the resurrection, the body must go in to decay and then we put on newness of life. No one can tell the processes and methods of the resurrection, and still we know from the testimony of others that it takes place, and is an actuality.

Referring to our first parents the speaker stated that they were merely breakers of laws given to them, and their crime was no worse than the breaking of the Word of Wisdom by many of us, even though there are many who would have us think that it was much worse. There is no double standard of morals, and while the world disregard many moral laws, and accept them as of little or no concern, we are all on the same plane in this matter and will have to answer for all of our sins.

In closing, the speaker drew attention to the promises of the Resurrection promised to the faithful and of the power,, increase, might and majesty throughout eternity for all those who would abide by the laws of the Gospel

Ira McBride sang a vocal solo the Choir sang "The Glorious Work, and the benediction was pronounced by Pres. J. W. Evans.

The Sunday evening meeting was under the direction of the M. I A. and a very interesting and impressive meeting was held.. Elder Callis spoke here again,' and urged the young people to live good, honest and upright lives, and pointed out the dangers of bad companions, bad environment, and habits not in conformity with the teachings of the Gospel. He expressed pleasure in his visit to the Canadian Stakes, and said he would not forget the people here.

Stampede July 2nd Will be Bigger and Better Than Ever

Will You Do Your Part?

At a representative meeting on Monday night last, it was decided to carry on again this year and stage a Stampede, second to none in Alberta, as has been Raymond's record in years past.

In the absence of the President and Vice-President of the Board of Trade, Mayor Jas. was elected Chairman of the meeting, and the question of whether or not to hold a Stampede was the first item of discussion Several present spoke to the porposition, and when the motion was put it carried unanimously.

Commitees were organized as follows for the Big Stampede:

Stampede Manager: O. Ray. Knight, to choose help if he chooses.

Grounds Committee: Geo. E. Court, I. B. Roberts, W H. Zobell, C W. Lamb and Raymond Bascom.

Advertising: L. D. King, Chairman, Lee and Geo. Brewerton, S. I May, others to be added if necessary.

Finance Committee: J. W. Evans Chairman, to choose his own help.

Children' Sports: T. Geo. Wood Chairman, to choose own help.

Program for Morning: Mayor Meeks, Chairman, to choose assistants.

Sports Committee: James D. Meeks, Chairman, O. R. Knight L. D. King, J. W Evans, A. D Wooley, and others if needed.

Dance Committee: M. T. King Chairman, to choose assistants.

The Raymond Second Ward offer of exchanging the use of the Open Air Pavilion for the Stampede Dance, in exchange for the Refreshment concessions was accepted by the meeting.

The question of admission brought forth a lengthy and pointed discussion. It was felt by all present that the admission should be reduced, but the question of how much was the bone of contention. After three other motions had been lost, a fourth one finally carried on the follwing basis: Adults 50c; 12 to 16 years 25c; under 12 free. An admission of 25c. will also be charged to the main grandstand. This will make admission to the Stampede within the reach of all and should result in a record crowd being there.

Adjournment at 10:30.

CLOUDBURST AGAIN HITS ANCIENT CITY

Jerusalem, May 15—A second cloudburst within 24 hours struck the 1900-year-old city of Tiberias at noon today shortly after the 17 persons drowned in Monday's deluge were buried. Another heavy death toll among chidren was feared as a result of today's rain.

The water rushed down from the hills for 25 minutes like a river. Stocks of goods were carried out of shops and houses were emptied of their contents.

The entire population of Tiberias fled to higher ground outside the city.

WELCOME HOME PARTY

A welcome home party in honor of Elders Isaac Roberts and Boothe Card will be held in the Opera House Friday night, and all are invited. Lunch will be served, a good program carried out, and dancing will follow.

Preceding the program, an open-air meeting will be held on Broadway in front of the Broadway Store, where all returned missionaries are asked to come out and help in the singing and the exercises of the meeting. This meeting will commence at 8:30.

LYBBERT CHILD PASSES AWAY

The death occured at 4 a.m. Thursday morning of the four year old child of Mr and Mrs. Chas. Lybbert, Della Esther, who has been ailing for a long time, being troubled with diabetes, and suffering from meningitis.

She took bad Wednesday forenoon and was rushed to the Hospital in Lethbridge in the aftenoon where all possible was done for her, but without avail, and she gradually grew weaker until the end came as stated.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today, (Friday) the First Ward Bishopric in charge The services will be held in the Stake House.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the family in their bereavement.

ROTARIANS MEET IN MONTHLY LUNCHEON

The regular monthly luncheon of the Raymond Rotary Outpost was held in the United Church Wednesday afternoon, with a good attendance of members, and President Erle E. Eisenhauer and Rev. A. K. McMinn of the Lethbridge Club.

The Rev. Mr McMinn was the guest speaker of the meeting and gave a very interesting and tought provoking talk on "Service, the Ruling Philosophy of Life," bringing out a number of points for members to think about, and emphasizing the fact that the big thing in life was the service we rendered for otherswhich enlarges the soul of man and makes life worth the living.

The President, T. Geo Wood outlined several community projects that Rotary will work on, and Lee Brewerton reported the Monday night meeting regarding the Stampede, so that Rotarians could get behind the annual celebration and boost for it.

The Ladies served a lovely lunch, and the hungry Rotarians did full justice to repeated helpings of the good things served them.

The weekly meeting of the "Bonne Amie" club was held at the home of Mrs. Thea Neilson. Mrs. R. Tollestrup was the only member absent. Slight alterations were made in some of the programme, Card Parties and picnics were arranged for the summer months. The hostess served a lovely lunch demonstrating something new in rolled sandwiches and a new crust for Orange pie.

A PRAYER FOR THE SOUTHERN PRAIRIES

(The Budget)

God keep their fields,
The people are so poor and old men die,
The women's faces have a beaten look
And little children cry.
Oh give Thy peace
Upon the land new-plowed and freshly sown,
Upon that stricken zone
The gardens, Lord!
The vegetables — the food they sorely need
Protect them from the locust and the worm
The smothering choking weed.
Their hearts are sick;
Too long they've waged their bitter war in vain
Aginst the wind and drought —
Oh, grant them now
The healing of the rain.
Oh, may their fields
Be clothed in green — their pastures cool and sweet,
May gentle skies bend over them — and peace
Reign there above their wheat.

IT'S YOUR STAMPEDE !

Folks, whether you agree or not with the decision of the meeting Monday night to put on Our Annual Stampede on July 2nd, Dominion and Raymond Day this year, you at least owe to the sponsors, and should make up your mind to this fact that it is your Stampede, and as a loyal and progressive citizen of the town, you are going to support it.

Year after year, in the past, a few men of the town have shouldered the responsibility of the Stampede, planned, worked and sweat on Stampede Day and for weeks before to put on a show that the public may enjoy, and for what reward Cussings from all and sundry because of high admission prices, slowness of the show, and everything else that could be thot of. The accusation has even been made that the Board of Trade was functioning for a few certain ones, and that the show was put on so that a few individuals could make a clean up each year at the expense of the innocent and unsuspecting public

Well, you should have been at the meeting Monday night and you would have surely been convinced, that those who were present and voted in favor of a Stampede had in mind an entertainment for all those who wanted to see it, and an entertainment to keep Raymond on the map as it has always been as a Stampede town.

Now you kickers, how does this sound for arrangements in keeping with the times that we like so well to howl about. O.R. Knight is furnishing the horses and Meeks Bros. are furnishing the cattle free of charge for the celebration. The Town Council has taken the responsibility of putting the grounds in shape for the show and the merchants have expressed a willingness to subscribe enough to pay all advertising costs. Three weighty matters taken off the financial end of it

Then too, the admission has been cut right in two. Adults 50c., and children 12 to 16. 25c., under 12 Free. 25c. will be charged for a grandstand seat, but you needn't go in the grand stand unless you choose Another economy move that it is hoped will please everyone. Will it?

The sponsors of the Stampede now have to take the responsibility of the Prizes and the feed for the Stampede, and about everything else is taken care of. There may be, and undoubtedly will be criticisms that the price is either too high or too low, and that this that and the other should have been done. You had a chance to be at the meeting and help do it, if you didn't come you will have to accept the other fellow's judgment for it

Now folks. Be good sports and boost the Stampede. We know in the past that many have purposely made plans to be away from Raymond on that date because they felt they were paying too much for the show, or that someone was getting a big rake off. This year the slate has been washed clean. No one is getting anything until all expenses are paid in full. Proceeds will be divided then on a basis decided upon by the committee and everyone rewarded according to his or their contribution. Boost the Stampede make it what it should be, bigger and better in every way. The success of this show is mighty fine advertising for our town, and we should all be behind it 100% from now until it is all over on the evening of July 2nd.

A man approached a stranger upon the street, stopped him and said, "If a train left Edmonton for Calgary and averaged 59 miles an hour, and another train left Calgary for Edmonton at 64 miles an hour, and they passed, how old am I?"

The Stranger: "Why, you're thirty-eight."

The Man: "That's right; but how did you figure it out?"

The Stranger: "Well, you see, my friend Ted is half crazy, and he's 19."

WEED EXPERTS MAKE REPORT ON SOW THISTLES

LINE ELEVATORS DISTRIBUTE BOOKLET ON LATEST METHODS OF ERADICATION

The manner in which sow thistle reduces grain yields is shown in figures produced in a booklet dealing with latest methods of control and eradication of this weed just compiled by Dr. G. P. McRostie, Professor of Agronomy, and W Tildesley, M.Sc Assistant on Weed Research, of the Agricultural College of the University of Manitoba. The survey was conducted over a period of three years under the direction of, and financed by, the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association. Booklets dealing with this weed are being distributed thsi week at all line country elevavtors.

The booklet deals with the plant; distribution in the West, origin of the weed; methods of spreading through seed and root system; the manner of damage caused by Sow Thistles; tables showing the average reduction in yield of wheat plants growing at different distances from Sow Thistle plants; methods of control through cultivation; use of chemicals and growth of sweet clover in areas where it is not necessary to summer-fallow to conserve moisture in combatting Sow Thistle growth.

Farmers who are troubled with this weed and those who wish to keep their fields from infestation are advised to obtain this booklet which is now available free of cost at all line country elevators. Booklets were recently issued by the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association dealing with Couch Grass control and the loss brought about by weeds in farm areas of the west

Gordon Brewerton of Cardston was a Raymond visitor on Tuesday last.

The minimum temperature reached in winter in Canada is of great importance in determining the distribution of plants more particularly in the case of shrubs and trees. Herbaceous plants are often protected from the effects of severe cold by a covering of snow.

CANADIAN AUTOMOBILES ARE GETTING OLD

Of the million cars and trucks registered in Canada at the start of the season, notes Albert Head of Gutta Percha, 80 per cent are reported to have been in service for 4 years or more and 50 per cent for more than 6 years.

"In view of the situation, we are naturally keeping a careful check to see that the stocks of the tires specified for models which came on the market during the past six years are maintained throughout the country," Mr. Head notes. "At the same time, of course, production of the new low pressure tires, introduced some months ago, is fully launched."

Mr. Head noted that recent surveys had revealed interesting information on the effects of high speed and under-inflation on tire wear, particularly tread wear. After 32 miles per hour, there is a very rapid increase in the percentage of tread wear. Four pounds of under-inflation on a balloon tire will double the tread wear on 4,000 miles of travel.

What About Social Credit in Canada?

This series is an explanatoin of the Douglas Social Credit Plan. Mr. Williams, (W.) a Social Credit advocate, is explaining the plan to his friend, Mr Jones (J.) The scene is Mr. William's home, and the conversation takes place during an evening visit ?

By following this series to the conclusion the reader will clearly understand the problem which faces Canada.

NUMBER 14

W. "I suppose you are anxious to ask questions about the operation of the Just Price but if you don't mind I should like to talk over the reason for the use of a discount like this.

Our power of producing goods greatly exceeds our power of consuming them. We do not consume all that we produce for we make roads, factories, bridges, machines, etc. These are not bought by individuals for individual consumption but are used for producing future consumable goods. All these can be considered as the Real Credit of a country and it is on this basis that financial credit should be issued.

J. "That's a long way from the gold standard basis of financial credit."

W. "The gold standard basis is a long way from commensense We have left a land of Makebelieve and have come in land of reality where we consider things as they are and not how they would be if they obeyed certain theoretical rules. Wll, our task is to make financial credit a true reflection of real credit. If our net production increases, our money should increse, and vice versa. So acting on this priciple we can adopt the practice of equating production and consumption by assisting the consumer to purchase goods which present conditions he cannot buy as he has lost the purchasing power by the various was we have discussed this evening."

J. " How do you tell the real cost of oything "

W "The real cost of production is consumption. That sounds like a wise-crack when you first hear it but as you start to think about it, you get the meaning. It simply means that the real cost of producing anything is the amount of things used up or consumed in the process. For example, the real cost of a chair is the wood and other materials used in constuction, the food consumed, the wear and tear of clothing and the energy used up by the workman — anything that went into the making of the chair."

J. "But some of these things will be hard to change into financial equivalents."

W. "Admitted. But in a national accounting it is easier, for at the end of any period you have what can be termed national appreciation which includes all goods made, all goods imported, and all new plant created. On the other side you have national depreciation which includes all consumption of goods, all exports, and all the obsolete plant and machinery which has been scrapped Now in Canada it is obvious that appreciation is much greater than depreciation. The erection of new factories, development of mines, etc. is greater than the demolition of obsolet plant and machinery. So we can say that the real cost of national production is national consumtion and it is certain that national consumption is much smaller. If our money system were accurate in relecting physical facts it would mean that the total price of goods produced in any period would amount to the financial cost of the goods consumed in that period, but we have seen that this is far from the case."

J. "Wel, how would the Just Price actually operate? Of course I can see the benefit to the consumer for it would mean that his money would go much farther than it does today. It would mean that if the price factor were three quarters, the standard of living would be raised 25% because the cost of living had been lowered by the same amount. I should pay only $75 for goods which I now pay $100, or in other words if I spent $100 as before, I should get 25% more goods for my money I'm all for the idea and I can see the logical basis of it, but how would it work out in the practical application?"

W. "It could be done in two ways. In the draft plan for Scotland, drawn up by Major Douglas the method used is this.

All registered business will be authorized to issue with sales to ultimate consumers an acount on suitable paper for use as explained in the following clause. (Clause 7) Payment for goods will be made in the ordinary way either by cheque or currency. The purchaser will lodge his receipted account (for goods bought with his bank in the same way that he now pays in cheques, and the discount percentage of the amount of such accout will be recredited to the consumer's banking account."

J. "That means that I would pay the regular price for goods over the counter but by taking my register coupons or counter bills to the bank I could get a sum of money equal to one-quarter o the total of my purchases.'

W "Correct."

J. "Now, where would the bank get tha money?"

W. "It would be issued to them by the National Credit Authority. And don't forget that this department does not get the money by taxation It is not a case of taking money out of one pocket in order to put it into another. It is new money created to make up the deficiency caused by the normal operation of our costing system and bank loan financing. Douglas does not try to eradicate the flaw itself. He uses the simpler method of adjuting it at the last stage—hat is, at the retail counter."

SEEING IS BELIEVING

We commonly place more faith in our eyes than in in any one of our other special senses. Our eyes may deceive us on occasion but we are generally right in beliving what wo see. The eyes are among our most precious possessions from the point of view of usefulness and too, because of their ability to expess feeling, they are of natural beauty and attractiveness.

The eye is compared to the camera with its box, shutter, lens and sensitive plate or film. The eye is protected, excepting in front by bone, particularly by the overhanging brow which wards off many blows. Further protectiion is given by a tough outer membrane. The iris, or pupil, aets as a shutter, controlling the amount of light passing to the lens, which in turn, is focussed by muscles so as to throw a clear image on the retina, or sensitive plate at the back of the eyeball. The image causes nerve impulses to pass from the retina along the optic nerve to the brain; thus we become conscious of the image that has been registered on the retina.

When you weep, you blow your nose The lachrymal gland secretes tears The tears lubricate the membrane (conjunctiva) which lines the eyelids so that they open and close smoothly. The eyeball is washed in tears by the movement of the eyelids The tears drain to the inner corner of the eye and from there down a tube into the nose. An excess of tears flows in response to certain emotions and so the flow into the nose is increased, followed by the natural stimulation which calls for the nse of the handkerchief.

Sometimes the lens does not focus properly and we have people who cannot see clearly things which are close to them; others have difficulty in having a clear vision of things at a distance. in such cases, the focussing mechanism is under constant strain because it is always trying to do what it cannot do. Properly fitted eyeglasses meets this situation, relieves the strain and secures for the person clear vision.

As we grow older the lens tends to harden. This condition (presbyopia) is normal with advancing years, which accounts for the fact that most people after forty, require glasses, at least for reading. The glasses will need to he changed from time to time as the condition of the lens alters. At such examinations should he made by a physician

Close work means tension. The eyes require rest. When doing close work, look up and out from time to time; the eyes are built for distant work and doing this gives them a rest. Use the eyes only with adequate light. Never poke at your own eyes or the eyes of any other person.

It's so convenient to keep a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a healthful ingredient in your cooking. For muffins, breads, waffles, etc.

ALL-BRAN brings your family the "bulk" that is so helpful in correcting common constipation.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. In severe cases, with each meal. How much better than risking patent medicines!

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. This "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

Special processes of cooking and flavoring make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable than ordinary raw bran.

And because it is all bran—with only flavoring added—it brings you more "bulk" than part-bran products.

PULLORUM DISEASE
IN BABY CHICKS

Numerous enquiries have been received at this Station recently from farmers regarding the possible cause of death among their baby chicks. In most cases reported symptoms have pointed towards pollorum disease or as it was once known, "Bacillary white diarrhea," and since this disease which occurs during the first two or three weeks of life causes heavy brooder losses of chicks, means of controlling it are of interest to every poultry keeper. symptoms of the disease include severe diarrhea, droopiness and finally death which occurs usually in two or three days.

There is no known remedy for pullorum disease once it has been contracted. Prevention is the only present means of control. Disinfecting the brooder houses before using and keeping the feed free from contamination are precautionary measures employed at this Station to keep the flock free from this scourge.

In addition all breeding stock on the Station is submitted annually to a blood test commonly known as the agglutination test. Pullorum disease is unusual in that it is not only contagious and may spread to the entire flock, before it can be checked once it is introduced, but the germ that causes it may also be transmitted from the hen to the embryo of the egg so the chick may be born with the disease. An important step in controlling pullorum disease therefore is to detect and remove all hens that may be carrying the germ of the disease and this can be done only by means of a blood test. Flocks are blood tested by Provincial Government for a nominal charge. Moreover the value and effectiveness of this annual blood test is thoroughly demonstrated at this Station where the baby chick flock is entirely free from pullorm disease and no losses have been suffered from this disease for several years.

K. Rasmussen, Assistant Superintendent in charge of the poultry work here urges that where baby chicks are purchased, they should be from blood tested flocks hatched either in the flock owner's incubation or in an approved hatchery where only eggs from blood tested flocks are hatched.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The prosperit of any community is not dependent upon the wealth of its citizens, but the way in which they pull together. There is greater good operation right now than at any period in the past century. Let each one of us try to revive the old time spirit of co-operation and mutual helpfulness which is so much lacking these days.

Another Five-Year Plan

Smith: Your wife told me, yesterday, that it was her thirtieth birthday, and you say that you are forty-five. I did not think there was that difference.

Higg: Well, really old chap, we are the same age, but she works her birthdays on the Russian five-year plan.

A Human Tendency

Too few business firms employ advertising to lessen their costs of selling.

Business enterprise today has two major problems: 1. To increase sales; 2. To lessen the cost of selling. Yet so many omit the use of advertising, despite their readiness to agree to the proposition that "advertising lessens the cost of selling."

We're frankly amazed at the avoidance of advertising in the face of the knowledge that it costs less to sell with the assistance of advertising than without it.

Strange, strange --- this human tendency to go contrary to what knowledge and experience has taught us is right !

To lessen your cost of selling, we commend to you an adequate campaign of regular advertising in
